TRENTON, N. J., Apr. 3—(INS)—Bewildered and disturbed, Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, prison keeper at the New Jersey State Penitentiary, fixed his spectacles on his nose this morning, and left the prison office with the declaration that "he was going to see somebody about the status of this whole business."

He declined to reveal who he intended to see.

TRENTON, N. J., Apr. 3—(INS)—Unless Governor Harold C. Hoffman springs an eleventh-hour sensation and grants another reprieve, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, will finally die in the electric chair at eight o'clock tonight.

The action of the Mercer County Grand Jury in adjourning until Tuesday without returning an indictment against Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton attorney who "confessed" to kidnapping the baby and then repudiated the alleged "confession," virtually sealed Hauptmann's fate.

A sickening surprise awaited Hauptmann when he awoke this morning and had the bad news imparted to him. He went to bed last night confident this Grand Jury investigation would still be going on and probably would last for several days, thus assuring him of a further stay.

But the jury, after a fifteen-hour session which in many respects was unprecedented, wound up its consideration of the Wendel case shortly before midnight with the announcement from Prosecutor, Erwin E. Marshall that the Grand Jury "no longer stands in the way of Hauptmann's execution."

Although Marshall gave a hazy and indefinite announcement of exactly what the jury had done, it was reported on excellent authority that the jurors had voted 13 to 9 against indicting Wendel.

Marshall in his announcement said the jury had "voted to discontinue further investigation of the Wendel case." It was believed the reason Marshall did not more clearly explain what had taken place was because of the strict laws of secrecy regarding Grand Jury proceedings.

The action of the Grand Jury is not supposed to be made public until its bill has been handed up to the judge, who in this case by an odd coincidence is Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at Hauptmann's trial.

There will remain up to the last minute tonight, however, the enigmatic figure of Governor Hoffman as a

Snowing and Colder
In Western Pennsylvania

Nature played a belated April Fool joke on Pennsylvania today by sending snow flurries over the State, and putting the skids under the mercury.

The fall was heaviest in western Pennsylvania, where the flakes piled up to half-inch depth. They were only occasional over the central part, and fell briefly over eastern Pennsylvania.

At Pittsburgh the temperature fell to 22 at the airport, but recovered to 32, the freezing point, later in the day. Harrisburg reported a low of 34, with the thermometer rising. Philadelphia was registered at a chilly 37, and then went higher.

RIVER PROBLEMS BEING CONSIDERED IN PHILA.Stream and Water Pollution,
Flood Control, Problems
Gone Over

125 INTERESTED ATTEND

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 3—(INS)—More than 125 river-men and state officials from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware, together with federal experts associated with the Resource Committee, United States Public Health Department, and War Department, are attending a conference today at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, called to consider problems of stream pollution, flood control, and water pollution. This regional conference on problems of the Delaware River was called by the Pennsylvania Commission on Interstate Co-operation.

The session was opened by Thomas A. Logue, chairman of the conference, and secretary of Internal Affairs in Pennsylvania. Henry W. Toll, executive director of the Council of State Government addressed the gathering on "The Regional Co-operation in the Delaware River Basin."

Speakers who dwelt on the pollution problem of the states in the Delaware River basin include: W. L. Stevenson, chief sanitary engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Health; Dr. William Rudolph, chief of the Department of Water and Sewage Research, of New Jersey; Charles A. Holmquist, director of Sanitation of New York State Department of Health; P. Warren Green, attorney general of Delaware.

Dr. Rudolph stated "The Delaware River and many of its tributaries are polluted by direct discharge of sewage from public and private sewers, and drains, and by industrial waste; indirect pollution from cesspools, septic tanks, and garbage dumps."

"In Pennsylvania, above tide-water, 12 communities discharge raw, partially- or completely-treated sewage."

"A number of milk plants, about 60 silk mills, slaughter houses and tanneries discharge waste. Acid mine drainage reaching the Lehigh River is neutralized by alkaline waters from cement-manufacturing regions, so that the natural purification processes of the river are not hindered by acid mine waste."

"In the tidal basin the most important offender is Philadelphia where only a small portion of the sewage is partially treated."

INVISIBLE TAXES

By HON. FRED A. HARTLEY, JR.,

Member of the House of Representatives from New Jersey.
In an Address Over the National Broadcasting System.

Until 1932 the income tax provided 53 per cent of the Government's income, but then an astonishing decline took place and now we find that less than one-third of its revenue is derived from that source.

As we borrow 49 per cent of our expenditures and raise 44 per cent by hidden taxes, we find the personal income tax pays ONLY 7 PER CENT of the Government's spending.

Since the advent of this Administration only one out of every forty-one Americans of voting age pays an income tax. Less than 2 per cent of our population file a taxable return. In the light of our burdens, this is indeed an undesirable situation.

One of the most urgent needs in our national life today is TAX CONSCIOUSNESS on the part of our people.

It is true that the adversity of the last few years has turned the attention of some of the people toward the cost of government.

But, strange as it may seem, the great masses of our people show a marked indifference toward the cost of government or how the bills are to be paid.

As a result, one group after another, without regard for costs, and often spurred on by Utopian money schemes that lead them to believe that their demands won't cost anyone anything, have lined up at the door of the United States Treasury for one kind of a subsidy or another.

The popular impression seems to be that Uncle Sam, in order to obtain these millions and billions, has merely to rub some sort of an Aladdin's lamp. Ah! But there's the rub. There comes a day of reckoning.

For every dollar spent or handed out, a dollar must be collected in taxes, and with interest.

We may do tricks with our currency or we may juggle our books, but we can't stop the inevitable—WE'VE GOT TO PAY THE BILLS SOONER OR LATER.

Uncle Sam will stop being a wet nurse only when the masses of our people realize this.

The dawn of tax consciousness in this nation will arrive only when we have had the courage to discard those taxes, narcotic in their nature, which, while sapping our vitality, leave us blissfully ignorant of their damage, and substitute therefor necessary direct taxes which we can see and feel.

Although the country needs taxes for revenue, designed to distribute the burden over a larger proportion of the population, no legitimate tax program will be followed during this session of Congress. Piece-meal efforts at reform like those now proposed are both inopportune and inadequate. And, of course, we must remember that this is election year. A President, Senators and Congressmen have to be elected or re-elected.

THE REAL MUSIC WILL BE FACED IN 1937.

What then? you may ask. My answer is that if Congress is to do the honest thing, tax innovations will be dropped.

We'll reject artfully-worded tax schemes designed to lead the masses to believe they're escaping the levy, and substitute therefor a broader base for our income tax structure, commensurate with our ability to pay, comparable with taxes we're all paying indirectly, under a sound and orderly program designed to ultimately balance the budget.

I hope I can make it clear that what I am advocating is not a greater tax than that which we will be called upon to pay, but rather that our tax program be brought out in the open when our people will know what they have to pay and thus understand what the spending of Federal funds means to their pocketbooks.

This statement may not carry popular appeal.

I suppose I'll be told why not "soak the rich" some more.

Under the present "soak the rich" policy, there isn't anything left to soak.

WE COULD CONFISCATE ALL THE REALLY LARGE INCOMES AND OUR PROBLEM WOULD STILL BE WITH US.

Some may say, why not increase the corporation tax? If Uncle Sam took all the net income of every corporation that had a net income, he could obtain LESS THAN THREE BILLION DOLLARS, and we spend over TWICE THAT SUM ANNUALLY.

The answer to this problem is RETRENCHMENT IN THE COST OF GOVERNMENT, aided and encouraged by direct taxation.

Rather than be waylaid in the dark, let us understand the levy we have to pay, so that tax consciousness may be restored and efficiency and economy in government become AN ACHIEVEMENT rather than A FORLORN HOPE.

WILL SAVE $200,000.00

The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania will file with the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania new tariffs providing for a reduction in the extra hand set charge of 25c per month to 15c per month, effective April 15th, 1936. Present regulations providing that the extra charge for hand sets cease after 24 monthly payments will be continued. In the case of hand set users who have had hand set telephones for less than 24 months the rate for the remaining months of the two-year period will be 15c instead of 25c.

This reduction will result in a saving of $200,000 to telephone users in Pennsylvania. There are 375,000 hand set telephones in service in Pennsylvania. Of these, 225,000 are receiving service without the extra charge. Of the remaining 150,000 the rate will be reduced to 15c per month for the period during which the extra charge applies.

County

BUILDING A NEW HOME

The internationally prominent Barclay Harding Warburton, Jr., and wife, Evelyn Hall Pierce Warburton, who was the former wife of H. Denny Pierce, will join Bucks county's fast growing colony of socially prominent metropolitan folks who are establishing permanent homes in Bucks County.

Mr. Warburton, World War aviator and former newspaperman, is the grandson of the late John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, pioneer merchant, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Harding Warburton, of York and Township Line Roads, Jenkintown. The senior Mr. Warburton was the founder and publisher of the old Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. The junior Mr. Warburton was also engaged in newspaper work for a time.

The old John Craig farm, including 97 acres, in Doylestown township, near Edison, and overlooking the picturesque Neshaminy Creek, has been purchased by Mr. Warburton, Jr., from J. Carroll Molloy, Doylestown realtor. The farm was known forty years ago as the Patterson farm and was also later known as the Eliab Ritchie and Costella farm.

Mr. Warburton, who has spent most of the past fifteen years living abroad in Italy, as well as in Palm Beach and on his ranch in California, was busy engaged yesterday in directing workmen who have started to raze old buildings on the farm that will be replaced by new structures.

The old farm house, typical of the period of Bucks county architecture of more than 50 years ago, will be restored and the old stone kept intact. A new addition, plans for which are now being completed at the office of A. Oscar Martin & Sons, Doylestown architects, will be added to one portion of the house. A new garage building, with a second floor containing a laboratory and a complete wood-working shop, a hobby of Mr. Warburton, will be built.

Mr. Warburton expects to oversee personally the construction work on his new farm. He will specialize in raising chickens and will have an up-to-date dairy plant according to his present plans.

HOPE DEFERRED AGAIN

If hope deferred maketh the heart sick, Alberta's once-hopeful converts to social credit must be feeling distinctly downhearted. After much sidestepping and sparring for time, Premier Aberhart has announced frankly that citizens of the province must wait at least another year before the wheels of social credit can be set into motion—if they ever are to be set into motion at all. Even the preliminary step of registering Albertans eligible for social credit dividends is postponed indefinitely.

"We have set the whole thing aside for the time being," the premier said. "Last autumn when we said we were preparing registration forms and would be sending them out soon, we were counting upon having Major C. H. Douglas, founder of social credit, come to Alberta."

But the voters of Alberta delegated to Mr. Aberhart, not to Major Douglas, the task of putting social credit into effect in that province. When Mr. Aberhart was waging his successful campaign on a social credit platform, he gave the impression that he knew what social credit meant and that he could make it work. He didn't warn the voters that he wouldn't even know how to send out registration forms unless he had Major Douglas at his elbow.

Social credit may be more than a bit of all right, economically and sociologically speaking. It may be the answer to all or most of our problems. But the next time any ambitious person runs for high office on a social credit platform, it might be well for his constituents to make sure that he knows what it is all about.

AIRPLANES REACH THEM

Certainly during the terrible calamity of the floods, the airplanes have proved bluebirds of happiness. In many places they have been the sole effective means of transportation. They and the amateur radio stations have kept open communications at a time when need of succor was appalling.

The remarkable adaptability of the planes for this type of emergency service is inestimable. When floods descend and in an hour sweep away dwellings leaving human beings marooned, stranded, isolated, separated from friends and relatives, menaced by cold, hunger and disease, the fastest means of land communication becomes aggravatingly slow.

Then it is that the airplane shows its infinite superiority. It hops off and wings its way freely in any direction. It soars indifferently over raging torrents and bogged down plains and pathless swamps. It is away out of the flood district in minutes; it reaches the facilities for aid offered by great centers of population hundreds of miles distant within an hour or two. It brings physicians and medicines and supplies; it carries to distant hospitals those in need of special treatment.

Already this great emergency has proved the service of the planes invaluable. The experience points to the need of careful planning so that in any future event airplanes and the necessary landing places may be immediately available and effective.

Edward VIII. may miss his pals of yesteryear, but the job has compensations. He needn't run for it again in 1940.

were members of the faculty of Wiconisco high school, where Collins served as athletic director; as well as his former class-mates at Bristol high school, and the University of Pennsylvania. The late Croydonite graduated from Bristol high school in 1931, and from the U. of P. in 1935. He had accepted the position at the Wiconisco school last October.

Fifty-three automobiles were required to transport those attending to the burial plot in Bristol Cemetery.

The exact manner in which the young man met his death has not been determined. It is presumed he was struck by another machine while repairing his automobile. Young Collins had left his home here early Sunday evening to return to his duties. He stopped in Ardmore to pass the evening with friends, and the accident occurred late Sunday.

By Louis Tomlinson

Long and faithful practice, together with courage and confidence were the main factors in the brilliant victory in the high bar event, over a select field of competitors from the eastern and western parts of Pennsylvania, for Dick Doyle, plucky Freshman of the Bristol High school, at State College, Saturday.

Doyle worked hard morning and night every day for a period of two months on his exercise in preparation for the P. I. A. A. meet. Many times he faced trials and difficulties in smoothing out his required and optional exercises, but despite discouragement he plugged on until he overcame his faults, and at the same time developed his form, which is also a big factor in a meet. This was the first year on the squad for the sensational Freshman, and as shown by his wonderful performance he certainly picked up this activity fast, and certainly deserves a world of credit for his faithfulness, courage and ability.

Doyle also performed on the mats and parallel bars on the gym team. He did not work on these pieces in the meet, however; but he did work on them in every exhibition, which helped him develop. In the Temple Fresh meet, although he did not place, he was among the top notchers, who performed and gained the experience, which also helped him tremendously.

In his first P. I. A. A. district meet held at Hutchinson Gymnasium at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia on Saturday, March 7, he placed second, one of the many places won by local gymnasts at that meet. This he was not contented with, however, so he went out for more laurels in the Regional (eastern section) meet held in Conwell Hall at Temple University on Saturday, March 14. Again he came through with flying colors and took a second in this much stiffer competition. Many of the boys, including Doyle, picked up some new "stuff" and ideas at the Temple-Princeton meet, which they had the privilege to witness. Once more Doyle did not content himself with this place nor did he become too confident for he continued his daily work-outs, and was in good physical condition for the final meet at Penn State and the result as already stated, was his brilliant victory with all the laurels he can have heaped up on him. Still not being satisfied, he is working out daily in preparation for the coming meet tonight at Germantown Y. M. C. A., in the hopes of stepping out in this much higher competition in the Junior Middle Atlantic or A. A. U's, and in our estimation should be able to place if he performs in the manner in which he performed in the past.

The only other member of the local squad to place in the finals was Bill Gallagher, another freshman, who like Doyle, deserves much credit for his brilliant work on his favorite piece. He also worked hard and faithful in preparation for these meets. Like Doyle he did not place in the Temple Fresh Meet, but rated high. In the district meet at Penn State captured one of the five firsts that the locals won. He slipped a little in the Regional meet at Temple; but made a brilliant comeback at Penn State to come through with a third place.

Although Bristol did not win the meet or many places they were the most evenly-balanced team in the meet as they scored on every piece, something which no other school in the meet could equal. All the credit in the world and much more goes to Coach Dougherty and the boys in accomplishing what they did. When Mr. Dougherty came here four years ago, Bristol never dreamed or heard of a gym team until he organized the first team in 1933. That year only a handful of students reported to the call to practice. They gave several exhibitions that year and received credit wherever and whenever they performed. They performed drills with much skill and accuracy. The next year the response was greater after the success of the first year. Last year and this year the squad was enlarged and was the first year of competition for some of the boys, as they entered the event sponsored by the A. A. U. This was also the year in which "Flit" Pico, with coaching from Mr. Dougherty, won the National A. A. U. rope climb championship for the 25 foot climb in the New York Y. M. C. A. by breaking the record of 7.2 seconds held by Dock of Dartmouth with climb of 6.4 seconds. This year was the first time the team as a team entered into competition. They carded three meets besides their annual gym exhibitions. They scheduled meets with Camden Y. M. C. A. home and away, both of which were cancelled, and one at home with Temple Fresh, which the latter won 33-21, but which greatly aided the locals in the P. I. A. A. Then came

State championships and more honors to coach and the boys. They proceeded to win the District Championship by taking five out of six firsts, four seconds, and two thirds out of twelve entrants and eleven out of eighteen places. They now hold the first leg on the District trophy and need to win two more times to retain permanent possession of the cup. At the Regionals at Temple Bristol took one second and four thirds with everyone of the ten entrants at Penn qualifying for the finals at Penn State. Here again the team entered new paths in sport at Bristol—that of a travelling team. The boys left Bristol Friday morning at 7 p. m. in cars for Philadelphia where they entrained in a bus and headed for Penn State, picking up Upper Darby and Coatesville swimming team besides several gymnasts from the former school and Lower Merion. In a crowded bus they traveled nearly 200 miles through mountains and flood areas arriving at 8 p. m. Quickly they registered, received their rooms, and a hasty but excellent meal and went to bed. The boys rose early Saturday morning and after taking a morning shower, strolled around the campus, visiting several important buildings and taking pictures. At 8:30 they had breakfast, then watched the P. I. A. A. final swimming events. Luncheon was served at 12 and followed by pre-practice for the gymnastics. Left State College at 5:00, stopping at Harrisburg at 7:45 to 9:00 for supper and arrived at Philadelphia at 12:30. Immediately they took cars and were home by 1:15. And now to top off the year eight members, including "Flit" Pico, Dick Doyle and Bill Gallagher, have entered the Middle Atlantic today, and hope to add more laurels to the team. And the climax of everything will be the result of the National rope climb, which all Bristol fans will watch closely and be rootin' for "Flit" Pico, who we hope will again retain this title, and gain an olympic try-out. And to Coach and the team—hats off, we salute you!

Hauptmann To Die Tonight Unless Reprieve Is Given

possible barrier between Hauptmann and the death seat. What he would do was unpredictable and open to all kinds of conjecture. He retired without making any statement on the Grand Jury's action, promising a statement for later today.

The Governor had appeared personally before the Grand Jury. It was the first time a New Jersey governor had gone before a Grand Jury in a murder case. His bitter opponent in the Hauptmann drama, Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, also went before the Grand Jury.

When the Grand Jury adjourned over the week-end its foreman, Alynne Freeman, called up Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, principal keeper of the New Jersey State Prison, and reported the Jury's action.

Kimberling said that unless something unforeseen develops he will proceed with the electrocution at the scheduled time tonight.

"The Grand Jury proceedings in the Wendel case were the only legal proceedings which could have prevented the execution," Warden Kimberling declared. "I did not want to electrocute one man so long as there was the possibility the Grand Jury might indict another man for the same crime."

"Now there is nothing that stands in the way of the execution of Justice Trenchard's order that Hauptmann be put to death during the present week." Asked what he would do in the event Governor Hoffman grants another reprieve, Kimberling replied he would seek legal advice from either Justice Trenchard or Attorney-General Wilentz.

Hauptmann, with virtually all hope gone and his head already shaved for the ordeal he must undergo, has already died a thousand deaths in his imagination and from now until the hands of the clock point to 8 p. m. will be subjected to a strain almost beyond human endurance.

"The condemned man, before he had retired for what might be his last night's sleep, had received a visit from his loyal wife, Anna, who did her best to bolster up his courage. She told him it was "Auf Wiedersehn" but not "good-bye." As she was leaving Hauptmann said confidently to her: "Annie, I'll see you again."
